

1. Why might a program not be installable using a package manager like apt?
2. What is an alternative when no binary is available for a program?
3. What is another reason (besides availability) to compile software from source?
4. Why can't a C source file like hello.c be executed directly?
5. What is the name of the common C compiler used in the session?
6. Which default output file is produced by compiling a C program?
7. What is the role of the preprocessor in the compilation chain?
8. What does the -E flag in gcc do?
9. What is produced during the assembly step?
10. Why is the assembly file useful to inspect?
11. What is an object file (.o), and why is it not executable?
12. What step is required to turn an object file into an executable?
13. Why does making an object file executable with chmod still not allow it to run?
14. What does the full gcc command (without flags) do implicitly?
15. What is a tar.gz file and what does it typically contain?